Mrs. J. Snowdon and Miss B. Gorton and their special education class were thrilled to be able to attend the Shrine Circus in Lethbridge on Thursday, June 1. This trip was made possible through the kindness of the Mental Health Association.

Everyone would like to thank the Mental Health Association for making all this possible. A special thanks to Mr. Merasak for his cooperation.

The Canada Wildlife Act which received first reading in the House of Commons several weeks ago, is the first major wildlife legislation to be introduced in Parliament in over 50 years. The existing Act is based on a 1916 convention signed with the United States.

The new Act will provide the Minister of the Environment with the authority to develop and implement, in cooperation with the provinces, a more effective program of wildlife conservation.

The Act, to be administered by the Canadian Wildlife Service, will provide authority to the Minister to acquire, control and manage lands for migratory birds conservation, research and interpretation.

In cooperation with provincial and territorial governments he will be able to carry out similar activities on behalf of wildlife species other than migratory birds. New agreements will be entered into with the provinces and territories to study, manage and interpret wildlife.

Further to these steps the minister will be empowered to take such measures as he deems proper, for the protection and conservation of wildlife.

Local Members Attend Convention

The first annual session of Grand Chapter Order of Eastern Star was held in the beautiful setting of Jasper Park Lodge, on June 6, 7 and 8, 1972.

Local residents in attendance were Sister G. Franz, Worthington, delegate from Minerva Chapter No. 41; Coleman; Sister G. Montalbini, Grand Representative of Kentucky, USA; or the Grand Lodge of Alberta, Sister K. Park, as a member of the Grand Chapter and Brother J. A. Park, as Assistant Grand Sentinel.

One of the highlights of the convention was the donation of $3,000.00 towards the Heart Fund. This donation was accepted by Dr. Callaghan, head of the heart surgical research of Alberta, who expressed his appreciation for this splendid effort of the members of the Eastern Star in Alberta, towards this project.

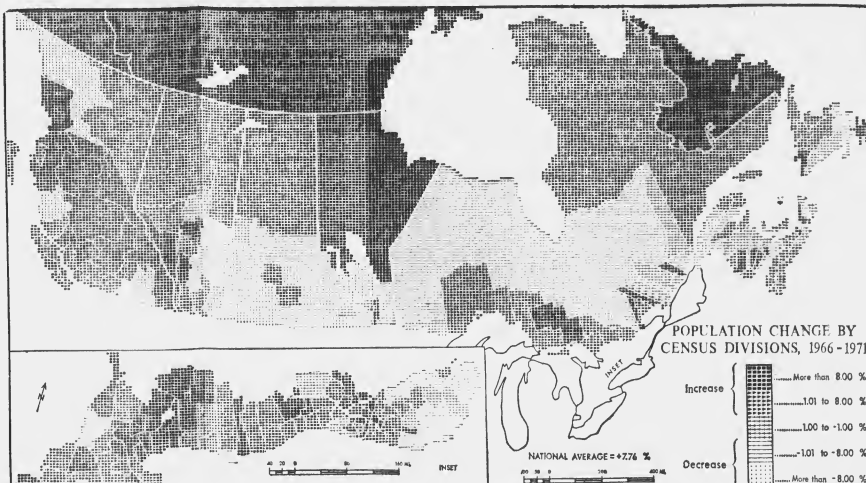

In cooperation with provincial and territorial governments for the protection of endangered wildlife. The need for the legislation arose from the fact that wildlife with the exception of migratory birds and wildlife in national parks, is under the legislative jurisdiction of the provincial and territorial governments. And, because wildlife is no respecter of boundaries, there has been an increasing need for more coordination in wildlife management and research. Resolutions passed at federal-provincial conservation conferences have called for greater federal involvement.

The Canadian Wildlife Act will provide a specific legislative basis for the Canadian Wildlife Service to carry out its existing wildlife management program, as well as for the broad objectives spelled out in the National Wildlife Policy and Program.

It is expected that most conservation-minded Canadians across the country will support this legislation. In particular the Canadian Wildlife Federation, Fish and Game Association, and local conservation groups are expected to support the Act.

Preventive Social Services

By CHARLES T. GALE

It has been often said that the family is the backbone of our society and that the strength of our society is dependent upon the strength of family life. It is therefore, important for every community to have the opportunity of involving itself in programs of family life education. Preventive Social Services, since its inception has been involved in providing people of the Pass with opportunities for family life education through such varied projects as family counselling, headstart, seminars on married life, sex relations, family planning, and community drop seminars. Preventive Social Services has sought to promote continuing education to the families in this area.

But anyone involved in the field of family life education would be naive in the extreme not to be aware of the crisis of change in which the family is living today. In the past, education for living was passed on by the adults in the family from one generation to the next. But except for a few isolated instances, this has ceased to be the case in the world today.

There are so many changes taking place in our world today, that the expectations of a predictable future by parents for their children seems to be a vanishing thing. Many people feel threatened by the rapid change that is invading their lives. They see youth exploring and experiencing various new life styles and they shake their heads in bewilderment. Traditions that seemed valid for generations are being questioned by the youth of today. And they are being questioned often violently as to their present relevance.

With more women entering the labour force and pressures from the area of women's lib, man's role as main provider for the family is also changing and as a result, the roles of husband and wife are less clearly defined. Outside of marriage, women are asserting their rights to bring up their own children. There is a large population where one parent alone is raising children due to separation or divorce. Many unmarried mothers are deciding to keep their children rather than give them up for adoption.

The "parental work ethic" — the harder you work, the more virtuous you are and the more successful you will become — is also losing the winds of change. Large scale unemployment is making it impossible for many to obtain jobs and the idea that personal success rests on the accumulation of money and property is being doubted by many. This situation is further complicated by the growing cry for less work and more leisure time.

In light of some of these dynamic changes which are taking place in our world today, it would be easy to feel very pessimistic about the future of the family unit in society and no doubt some people do. However, one eminent family life educator who looks at things more optimistically sees the goals of future family life education as two-fold: (1) to help individuals and families to live more creatively in a rapidly changing society, and (2) to enable people to develop sufficient inner strength to face and live with new forms of family life that may evolve.

Herein, perhaps, lies the solution to look at family life realistically and in terms that set out goals and priorities to carry us into the future.

Mountain Meadows Campground Opens In Southern Alberta

Mountain Meadows Campground is a new family campground which will be open in Southern Alberta, this summer. It will be operated by the Family Y, as a new phase in their camping program.

The campground is located on a private ranch, nine miles south-west of Beamer, Alberta in the shadow of Chief Mountain. It is fully serviced with camp tables, drinking water, firewood, and sanitary facilities, and has capacity for twenty units or approximately eighty persons per day. The registration fee is $2.00 per day for space and electrical hook-up.

Four Y staff will be present on the campground, including an out-trip specialist, a craft instructor, and a naturalist, and programs for the entire family will be offered on a carter basis, for a program fee of $1.00 per day. Special events will also take place, throughout the summer on the campground. The rustic mountain setting affords limitless recreational opportunity, including fishing, hiking, climbing, swimming and nature trails. Horseback riding will also be available at the camp site for a nominal charge.

Meals will also be available on the campgrounds, and campers will be free to make use of this service, designed to free mom from her regular chores and enable her to enjoy the outdoors.

Field Trip Enjoyed By Students

On Friday, June 9, the grade classes of Horace Allen, accompanied by Mrs. J. Grand, Mr. G. Frier and Mr. T. Coccioloni, went on a social studies and science trip.

The first part of the trip featured a trip to a wildcat gas well, being drilled by Loffland Oil Co. just north of the Waldren ranch, along the Longview Road.

The second half of the trip was a rock hunt where students were given the chance to display their knowledge and skills in classification they had acquired in class.

A special thanks is extended to the men of the Loffland rig and especially to Joe Van Hee who went out of his way to ensure the success of the venture.

This is the way Canada's population distribution looks to a computer that has all the facts. From basic population data stored in its memory, the computer produced the map above, indicating population change by census divisions, shading each area according to the percentage of increase or decrease recorded in the 1971 Census of Canada. Southern Ontario and part of southern Quebec are left white on the main map and shown in larger scale in the inset at lower left.

Horoscope

THIS IS YOUR LIFE

By TRENT VARRO

DON'T PAY TO HAVE YOUR HOROSCOPE READ — READ IT HERE !!!

ARIES—March 21 to April 20

Everything is most active in Aries right now, but perception may be dulled by seemingly unimportant events. Co-workers might not appear to understand your point of view.

TAURUS—April 21 to May 20

Astrologically, it would be wise for Taurus individuals to be EXTREMELY cautious in aquatic activities such as swimming, boating, fishing or water-skiing etc. In fact it might be better to steer clear of these activities entirely this week.

GEMINI—May 21 to June 20

A great deal of "rushing around" in many spheres is indicated for Gemini persons at this time. You have everything "going" for you now, just don't become bewildered.

CANCER—June 21 to July 21

Things haven't changed much in your horoscope from what they were last week. Major decisions and sudden changes are still to the fore. Best to wait this thing out; it won't take long.

LEO—July 22 to August 21

Quite a romantic interest is creeping into the sign of Leo, aiding the lucky transit that is already in effect. The "romance" will tend to fade, but the "luck" is here for some time.

Virgo—August 22 to Sept. 21

The coming week may see some sort of "major achievement" take place in your life. Treat others with respect and courtesy. They will admire you for it.

LIBRA—Sept. 22 to Oct. 22

As in the horoscope charts for Cancer and Capricorn, aspects in the zodiac are still pretty much the same as they have been for the past week, except perhaps, that Libra is enjoying the beneficial conjunction of Venus and Jupiter.

SCORPIO—Oct. 23 to Nov. 21

By the middle of next month, you are liable to encounter some big "change" in your living conditions. Make plans now, to be sure the "change" is for the better.

SAGITTARIUS—Nov. 22 to Dec. 20

You should read this week's chart for Leo, as it applies even more so to you. Legal matters of all description are most highly appreciated. BUT, if you find yourself involved in a legal matter, see a GOOD lawyer!

CAPRICORN—Dec. 21 to Jan. 19

Read the charts for Libra and Capricorn this week, and apply them to yourself, they apply to you also, except for the "romantic" bit. There is a strong "tie-in" now, between these three signs.

AQUARIUS—Jan. 20 to Feb. 18

Common sense thinking and planning will pay off handsomely for you right now. Be objective, and do not be swayed by emotional prejudice. Be fair in your judgements!

PISCES—Feb. 19 to Mar. 20

Here again, the aspects in the zodiac haven't changed much for you in the last couple of weeks. Intuitions and plans for the future are VERY keen! You should do well!

Field Study

In the past two weeks, eight bus loads of grade 5 students from the county of Lethbridge, No. 26, visited the Crownsnest Pass on field trips.

The following are the teachers and their schools: Miss Ducek, Baker school; Mr. Thomas, Revely made; Miss Enns, Davidson; Mrs. Vogt, St. Catherine's; Mr. Thomas, Davidson; Miss Murry, McNally; Mr. Asplund, Huntsville; Mr. Duce, Turm; Mr. Husar and Sister Yvonne, St. Joseph's; Mrs. Stecina, Coahurst Elementary; Mr. Kornelsen, Shaughnessy; Mrs. Raisbeck, Hardville; Miss Siemens, Sunnyside; Mrs. Sanderson, Noble Central; Mr. Bergman, Daldiesh.

Their schedule involved a stop at Landbreck Falls and the Frank Slide. After they visited the Hillcrest cemetery, viewing the graves of the disasters of the Hillcrest Mine explosion of 1914 and the Frank Slide.

They proceeded to the Coleman Collieries office, where Mr. Colman, personal manager of the company, obligingly accompanied them to a viewpoint on highway No. 3, overlooking the tipple. Here the classes are given an informative talk about our number one industry in Coleman—a coal mine.

Then the bus proceeded west where they were met by Deputy Mayor Emily Misura and Mrs. C. Holyk, the mayor's wife, who welcomed them to the Crownsnest Pass and pointed out the surrounding mountains—the Crownsnest mountain, Windward mountain and the Sleeping Giant, also Dead Man Pass.

They were also told of the Livingston Range, where prospectors still search for the Lost Lemon mine.

Mrs. Holyk recounted happenings such as the Train Robbery at Sentinel and Sago of the Lost Lemon and Dear Mans pass.

The groups were shown a collection of fossils found in the area from Landbreck to Cranbrook and were told where they could view interesting rock formations.

The class then toured the Phillips Cable Plant, Atlas Lumber Mill, Atlas Lumber Mill and the timeworks and were driven far as the B.C. border before returning.

They were most enthused about their whole trip and expressed their sincere thanks to everyone who gave their time and helped to make their trip worthwhile and an enjoyable one.

They were cordially invited to return to this area to view and learn more about mining, which we consider to be our million dollar tourist attraction and take advantage of our picnic and camping area at Allison dam.

Miss Liz Sherington has been a patient in the CNP general hospital.

GARDEN TALK

By ANDY LeROCHELLE

MAKE THE MOST OF SHRUBS

As An Edible Crop Ornamental

One of the best ideas is to let your shrubs serve a delightful dual purpose—decorate the garden and feed the gardeners. Just as a number of bushes enhance the landscaping and attract birds because of their fruit or berries, several more can be chosen for use as single specimens, borders, etc., that yield crops people enjoy.

Already mentioned are elderberry, bush cherry, raspberries, blackberries. Add to these are the shore-loving beach plum, grape, flowering quince, highbush blueberry currants and gooseberries.

here's also the unique rugosa rose, not only a strong, prolific-blossoming shrub but source of remarkably rich-in-vitamin C berries, usable for teas, jams, soups and other dishes.

Dwarf fruits, such as low growing apples are similarly effective, can be trained as a yard divider or fruiting hedges. And one easy-to-grow bush-type nut tree, the chinquapin, found mostly in the southern states of USA, produces nuts which taste like a sweet chestnut and ripen earlier than the American or English chestnut.

Early fall planting is desirable for shrubs because plants set in autumn usually make root growth during the fall and winter months.

nursery stock has become a popular and effective method to introduce more shrubs into gardens during the growing season.

Remove containers before planting. If you see roots on the sides of the ball, make several vertical cuts with a knife to prevent roots from continuing to grow in a circle. It is not necessary to remove the burlap from balled and burlapped plants. It will decompose in a short time. However, make several slits through the burlap on the sides of the ball after the plants have been set in the planting hole to hasten root penetration.

Bare rooted plants must have their roots spread out to full length to take the greatest advantage of moisture and fertilizer.

Container-grown shrubs and trees, nursery-grown in containers, however, may be transplanted throughout the spring their roots spread out to full length to take the greatest advantage of moisture and fertilizer.

Water Safety Week

In the days of ancient Greece and Rome, swimming was rated highly and was actually stressed in the training of warriors.

Throughout the middle ages people generally believed swimming (or outdoor bathing) helped spread epidemics like the black plague which swept the continent of Europe. Swimming, even contact with water, became associated with death.

It wasn't until the second half of the 19th century that medieval prejudice began to hold its hold on people and aquatic activities became more accepted, gradually more popular.

Today most people enjoy the water. But a look at the drowning rate for a single summer — even though it has decreased yearly during the past 26 years — would make you wonder if some people have any respect for the water at all.

That's part of what Red Cross water safety service is all about — reminding people from coast to coast that water is fun, yet deserves respect.

The Red Cross water safety service also trains qualified instructors who conduct learn-to-swim programs, from pre-beginner through senior levels, and special survival swimming courses which teach people how to stay alive in deep water.

This week is Red Cross national water safety week.

During this week and throughout the summer, Red Cross water safety service reminds you to include water safety in your plans for summer fun.

Make sure your family respects the water. If children do not know how to swim, give them a chance to learn. Contact our local Red Cross water safety service today and ask about local swimming programs.

SAD QUANDARY

A three-man executive committee of the Ontario NDP has recommended that the party dissolve its extremist radical left wing, the Waffle. The committee said the Waffle was a threat to the structure and direction of the NDP as a whole.

The Waffle, formed in 1969, is violently anti-American, although the inspiration for some of its ideas obviously comes from the American New Left. It calls for a radical take-over of Canadian industries and banks, which means, also, the elimination of American ownership in Canada. These are campus notions (Waffle leadership is heavily weighted with academics) that have little relationship to living realities. Some academic minds are quite unable to realize the agonizing grief that separates the pleasing or exciting theory from the accomplished fact.

Needless to say, millions of Canadians know that in the extremely unlikely event of the Waffle having its way they would likely be living on bread and water for a whole generation.

As far as the NDP is concerned, dissolving the Waffle would have serious repercussions. The party is dedicated to democratic socialism which means using public ownership as "a selective tool of economic planning." This is a far cry from the Waffle policy and a separation would appear to be unavoidable on the grounds of ideology, but to what extent would it weaken the NDP?

Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, has regretted that he did not take action long ago. With a federal election almost certain to come within a few months, a party whose provincial counterpart has torn off one of its limbs in full public view will present a weak image.

Waffle Leader James Laker has said he wants to remain in the party, though the executive committee's decision, which has been approved by the NDP provincial executive, may have made him modify this view.

As Mr. Lewis has said, "When solidarity goes, confusion takes over." Presumably the NDP has to set its house in order whatever the cost. And that might well be considerable in terms of supporters and contributions, particularly in Toronto where the Waffle is apparently strongest.

It would be better for the NDP in the short view if it were able to soft pedal the dissension produced by the Waffle until the next party convention, which might well be after the forthcoming federal election. But the tempo has quickened in recent weeks and dissolving the Waffle seems more urgent now.

It has now passed apparently from whether to when.

B.C.T.F. Fiddles While A-G Acts

While the British Columbia Teachers' Federation have been planning political battle strategy and condemning the government for its educational legislation, they have, according to A. E. Hall, registrar of companies neglected to do their homework in the matter of electing officers.

NEWS ITEM — A. E. Hall, registrar of companies says the BCTF is not electing its officers according to the Societies Act. Mr. Hall said in his report, the teachers were using the delegate system of voting contrary to the 1961 amendment to the societies act that requires all members to vote for their officers.

This brings into question and doubt in the minds of the public all of the actions of the BCTF in recent years. If as, Mr. Hall says, there have been irregularities the BCTF should be meted out the same treatment as any other non-profit organization.

If it is proven the BCTF has contravened the laws of B.C., the actions of federation officers since the contravention, could be deemed illegal and their policies, even though passed by those present at bona fide conventions or in policy in caucus would be ultra vires.

Some of the policies suggested by these officers have been opposed by sections of their membership and disliked by an area of the British Columbia population.

As a result of this exposure the public can only express a feeling — the teachers instead of challenging the political arena, should clean their own house first, stay within the boundaries of their teaching area and become more dedicated to teaching children.

When they have regained their dignity as a profession, they would be in a position to properly protest any inequities their membership might feel is warranted.

LETTERS

TO THE EDITOR

The Editor,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:
We couldn't refrain any longer from writing to your paper and letting the public have a little better view on how your recreation board is being run.

No doubt you have read the notice and qualifications Larry Nicolson had in the Pass Herald on May 31. Some may think this was out of order, but he felt he wanted the public to know that he applied for the position of assistant recreation director for the months of July and August.

When he had seen the small article at the end of the recreation news in May 10 issue of the Pass Herald saying they wanted someone down to the recreation office to see about the job, but was plainly told that she did not want anyone from the Pass for the position.

All the advertisements and posters you read are to hire students and youths for the summer months. We understand the position was given to two school teachers who are already employed rather than give it to a youth who is unemployed and wanted to gain more experience.

We know the main reason Larry was not hired is because he is a Coleman boy and they are afraid Coleman may get a little recognition if he were there.

Knowing some of the board were born and raised in Coleman, it's hard to believe they can be prejudiced.

How come these people who were hired had been working with the recreation director for some time learning the work before their applications were interviewed by the board? Is this the proper procedure in hiring employees?

To top things off, we understand the recreation board has decided to hold the swimming pool opening July 1, which has for many years been Coleman fire brigade's hose coupling day. If this is proper programming perhaps the recreation director should study up more on programming. It seems everything is "Buck" Coleman.

It is hard to sit back and see a youth treated this way when Larry had so much enthusiasm. We are beginning to see why there are so many disinterested youths, coming up when they are not recognized for their abilities.

It is about time our recreation board was investigated by the proper authorities and see what is going on. Not just run by one or two people. It is also about time the grown-ups of the Pass realize they are adults and try to work together to make this community a more pleasant place to live in.

Holy Spirit Church, Coleman Scene Of Wedding Vows

Holy Spirit Church, Coleman was the scene of a very beautiful wedding on May 20, 1972, when Jacqueline, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lant of Coleman was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Vance Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Belle-rose also of Coleman.

Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was Father Dennis McDonald, with Miss Debbie Finn as organist, accompanying Miss Bonnie Jean Dobek, who sang "For All We Know, and for the signing of the register she sang "Some-where My Love." She also sang "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother," for the bride's and groom's mothers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiant in a traditional floor length white gown, her long veil held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow roses and baby breath centered with an orchid.

The bridal attendants were twin sisters of the bride, Misses Connie and Carol Lant. Cousins of the bride, Misses Bonnie Schilling and Darlene Galicia. They wore floor length gowns of orange and yellow floral pattern, and they carried baskets of white daisies and baby-breath, with satin ribbons entwined. They wore pearl tiaras in their hair.

Two little flower girls, nieces of the groom, Leah Matheson and Jamie-Lyn Tozer, wore white dresses to resemble the brides, trimmed with yellow daisies. They carried baskets of yellow and white daisies and baby-breath. They wore yellow flowers in their hair. The ring bearer, Marty Lant, cousin of the bride wore a white tuxedo suit, and carried a white satin pillow.

Attending the groom were the groom's brother, Curtis Belle-rose, the bride's uncle, Robbie Amato, Bill Lant, the bride's cousin and the groom's cousin, Lorne Petersen. They all wore white dinner jackets and black slacks.

Ushers were Cameron Belle-rose, Troy Tozer and Jay Amato. Alter boys for the occasion were Randy Amato, cousin of the bride and Sheldon Belle-rose, brother of the groom.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of yellow and white Gladioli.

A reception followed in the Elks Hall, Blairmore, where approximately 200 sat down to a lovely supper.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, on top of a bed of white lilies and yellow roses. The tables were all beautifully decorated with Grecian vases of orange and yellow flowers, and table favors.

Mr. Tony Martino of Spokane, Washington was master of ceremonies.

A dance followed in the evening, where approximately 400 guests enjoyed an evening of dancing. Music was provided by the 4's orchestra.

For their honeymoon trip, the bride wore a three piece outfit of white and red tulle and wore a white orchid corsage. They motored to several USA points and the Okanagan. They have now taken up residence in Coleman.

Family and friends from out of town at the Lant-Belle-rose wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Tony Martino, John and Lori of Spokane, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Soleraj, Creston, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Don Amato and son, Nelson, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peresoto and Linda, Trail, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Royce Amato and family, Calgary, Alberta, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Aniol, Tom and Geraldine, Lethbridge, Mr. and Mrs. A. TOWN COUNCIL NOTES

Mr. Gino Quarin attended the council meeting requesting time re: building his six-plex due to his plans being delayed. Another month of extension was granted.

Mr. E. Amell, assistant fire chief extended an invitation to the mayor and councillors and their wives to attend a banquet to be held July 1, when the firemen host the hose laying competitions in Coleman.

A delegation was present to make council aware of the actions taken by the regional recreation board in hiring two teachers for summer employment in preference to students. They stated that there has been many valid complaints made versus the recreation board with no results and hoped that council would write a letter to Dr. E. M. McFarland to investigate the actions of this board. Council agreed.

Mr. George Gette and Mr. Wayne Tizard, two engineers of Underwood McLellan were present informing council of the work that was done and also the cost of their new development north of Coleman.

Mr. T. Nicholson of the Oldman River Planning Commission was present and there was a lengthy discussion on development control.

Mayor J. Holyk gave a report on the refresher course in Banff that he attended, accompanied by secretary John Kapalka and it was very informative re: municipal affairs.

Titles of land from the Delos Developers for the shopping centre were returned and agreements were cancelled. Now council will proceed to contact a new developer for their shopping centre. Council appointed mayor Holyk and councillor Atkinson to immediately pursue this project. A meeting will be set up in Calgary for further discussions.

A letter from Turcott and Assoc., re: 'Dump'. Council agreed to await decision that will be made by the various departments that Willington, Alta., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Marelli, Nelson, B.C.

Several plans for new buildings were referred to the building committee for their approval.

A letter was written to the recreation board re: recreation budget. Council agreed to accept the 1972 proposed budget less the months of April and May and June where the recreation board saw fit to authorize the curtailment of services to the Town of Coleman. Also this letter will act as our notice to the recreation board indicating our withdrawal from the board effective January 1, 1973.

Re: wage negotiations for town employees. The conciliation award of 30c per hour inclusive for 1972 and 25c per hour increase for 1973 and other fringe benefits were accepted by the Coleman council. But the employees rejected this offer by their vote of June 9. Council and CUPE applied for mediation.

Coleman Social

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Cornett and Mr. and Mrs. Clark of Pincher Creek, Alberta, motored to Prairie, Alberta, to attend a past-master's convention.

Shower For Kathy Krywolt

Approximately 100 ladies attended a shower held in honor of Miss Kathy Krywolt, on Thursday, June 15, in the Catholic Hall, Coleman. Games of whist and bingo were played: 1st place prize won by Mrs. Linda Rafferty; 2nd whist, Mrs. E. Hill; consolation was won by Mrs. Louise Montalbetti. Door prize was won by Mary Morris. The hostesses served a lovely lunch.

Kathy received many useful gifts, an automatic washer as her large gift.

She thanked all who donated gifts that couldn't attend, and to all who came.

A special thanks to all the hostesses for making her shower such a memorable occasion.

Kathy will be married to Mr. Rene Comin on July 12, in the Holy Spirit Church, Coleman.

All Things Considered

By Eleanor Blair

Fortune has smiled and I have found, for a time, grass land for my horses comparable to what Steinbeck's people called "las pasturas del Cielo."

It is a beautiful wild place of meadows and streams, with ample shade cast by tall strong evergreens and silver birch trees, where, because the fields are so far reaching, it is easy to imagine that one is in wilderness country. The horses believed they were, and reacted accordingly.

These horses are accustomed to proceeding decorously around a ring in riding lessons. They also move obediently along on trail rides, conveying tourists. They have probably encountered all species of mankind, and have learned, as humans do, that it is usually wiser to conform. They are, what are known as steady and reliable.

However, this day of release in "the pastures of heaven" was another story. As soon as the halters were off they changed into untamed mustangs of the boundless plains, and banded together on a slight rise of ground with heads held high and the proud look of eagles. They knew not the restraining hand of man, and would at that moment have scorned a proffered apple or a sugar lump.

They wheeled and galloped across the width of the meadow and I have seldom seen them look so free. Perhaps this was because the grass was stirrup high, and there are no boundaries clearly in sight, as the fence line is partly concealed by trees and bushes.

The shadows of the evening lengthened as I stood there. Far away the coyotes howled and the horses circled and galloped back again, thudding on the turf, and running for the pure love of running.

And I thought how privileged they were to be there, and how privileged I was to watch them. True freedom is a lovely thing.
